Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Jan 27.—The feature in trading in the wheat pit was the unusual activity and comparative strength of the July delivery. May exhibited much nervousness and was easily influenced by any little trade either way. Quietness was noticeable at the start, there being few orders on the market. The opening duliness was the result of a conviction in the minds of the pit crowd that so long as one firm stood ready to buy all that was for sale on May delivery it was useless to attempt trading. Easier cables caused a slight loss on initial sales, May being a shade to $4054c lower at $25,000.55c. Light offerings, with a fair scattered demand, soon caused an advance to $605c.

Mountain Trout Go Well at High Price, and Oyster Trade Is Good.

Local produce trade is comparatively quiet. A few Utah chickens are coming in-almost enough to supply the demand. There are practically no fresh turkeys, and cranberries are off the market. A fine shipment of mountain trout was received yesterday, and these do not last long, even at the high price. The mar-ket is well supplied with crabs of excellent quality, and the oyster trade is good. The demand for staple meats and seasonable fruits and vegetables is about normal.

Oats were firm the greater part of the day, on a fair commission house demand, but the late weakness in wheat caused a reaction and the close was about steady. May opened the higher at 42%c, sold between $2c and 42%c, closing at 42%c.
Liquidation by small holders and selling by packers caused some weakness in provisions. There was some support from commission houses on the decline, which resulted in a slight rally.
